

Operations Development Program – Industry Sector On-site and on-target

These opportunities place you front and center at some of the most exciting and dynamic areas of our business operations. From wind farms to the factory floor, you'll be at the center of the action, as you gain the skills and knowledge to move your career in exciting new directions.

Operations Development Program

Designed as a training path to the role of an Energy Engineer Associate within our Building Technologies Division, this twelve month program combines classroom sessions, online lessons, and on the job experience under the direction of a mentor. You'll visit facility sites, analyze the current situation, and identify/produce plans for facility improvements. You'll also assist sales and operations in developing, procuring and executing of performance contracts and monitors project performance.

Qualifications:

GPA: 2.7 or above preferred.

Majors: Bachelor's degree in Engineering; specifically with a mechanical, energy, or HVAC focus
Experience with the Industrial Assessment Center (IAC) or LEED certification is preferred

Relocation: Must be willing to travel/relocate as needed

Locations: Nationwide

Work Authorization: Permanent work authorization in the U.S. is required